OBSEQUIES ARE IMPRESSIVE

Funeral of Mrs. Martha H. Brown Is Largely Attended—Many Floral Offerings.

SUIT FOR DAMAGES FOR LIBEL

Another Act in the Terry-Wertz Drama—Chinese Gardener Came Into America Surprisingly.

Ogden, May 8.—The funeral services held over the body of Mrs. Martha H. Brown at the Fifth ward meeting-house yesterday afternoon were simple and yet most impressive, and were attended by many friends from throughout the state. The edifice proved far too small to accommodate the great throng of people who gathered to pay their final respects to the noble woman.

The speakers were Presidents C. F. Middleton and L. W. Shurtliff of the Weber stake, Elders John Henry Smith and David O. McKay and Moroni Poulter. The music was furnished by a quartet composed of Jed Ballantyne, William Pickett, John W. Shurtliff and Carl Allison. Solos were rendered by Misses Myrtle Ballinger and Sarah Pingree and Mrs. Elizabeth Culley. The floral offerings were many and beautiful and were silent tributes to the high regard the deceased was held in the community. The funeral cortege was the largest seen in the city in some time. The interment was made in the city cemetery.

STAKE CONFERENCE.

Kanosh Meetinghouse Dedicated and New Ward Bishopric Chosen.

Special Correspondence. Kanosh, Millard Co., May 4.—The quarterly conference of the Millard stake of Zion, held here, closed last evening, and has been an important one, especially to this ward. President Francis M. Lyman and Elder Joseph W. McMurrin were present. All the wards in the stake were represented, and good and glowing reports were made by the bishops. President Lyman on Sunday dedicated the newly finished meetinghouse here at Kanosh. A change in the ward bishopric was also made. Bishop C. F. Christensen, who has held this office for ten years with the confidence and esteem of the whole ward, was released at his own request, and was set apart as a high counselor to fill the vacancy made by the appointment of Abraham A. Kimball as bishop of the Kanosh ward. Orson Whittaker and Edward L. Black are the bishop's counselors.

Elder Joseph M. Robinson was set apart as alternate high counselor, and James A. Kelley of Fillmore was made one of the presidents of the Forty-second quorum of seventy.

Charles Warren Whittaker was set apart as ward clerk and choir leader of Kanosh. Some severities and other ordinations also took place.

The conference was well attended, and during Sunday a much desired rain came, and in 24 hours 1.25 inch of precipitation had fallen upon the thirsty earth to make all hearts glad.

Elder James Abraham and James Charlesworth recently left here to labor as missionaries in the Southern States.

It is learned that the towns of Fillmore, Holden, Meadow and Oak City lost their fruit by recent frosts. The present prospect here is good for an abundant crop.

600, all for damages for libels, for injuries to name and business. The complaint alleges that the plaintiff is a resident of Ogden and at the head of a family, has been engaged in the business of conducting a rooming house in support of herself and family; and that on April 1, 1908, the defendant appeared before Judge Murphy in the municipal court and charged the plaintiff with keeping a house of ill repute. A warrant for arrest was issued for the plaintiff, and she had to appear in court in answer to the charges, but the case was dismissed at the investigation.

This suit is one of many that is being filed in the ejectment proceedings brought by George Terry to secure possession of the premises occupied by Mrs. Wertz on Court street. Several days ago Terry had the sheriff seize all the furniture in the house and store it in one room so that the plaintiff in the state court could not conduct her business. It is expected that several other suits will follow before the incident is closed.

COL. JUAREZ, MEX.

DEATH OF JOS. H. JAMES.

Sturdy Pioneer and Churchman Closes Honored Career at 53.

Special Correspondence. Colonia Juarez, Chihuahua, Mexico, May 1.—Jos. H. James was accidentally killed April 23 by a log leaving the chutes and plunging upon him, while working in his mill near this place. He was the son of the late Joseph H. James and Sarah Holyoak James, born in Ogden City, Utah, Oct. 22, 1854, at which time he resided in the town of Ogden. In 1873, while yet a youth, he was called to go to St. George and assist in the construction of the railroad. He was chosen as one of the first to colonize Arizona passing through many trials and hardships to perform his life in Arizona, but endured them manfully. While many foresaw this mission, he was one of the few who remained firm and true, and while there he filled many positions of honor, for a number of years he was president of the Mormon church, and again called to help colonize Mexico, again going through the privations of frontier life. He was a well known and much esteemed by a multitude of people in Utah, Arizona and Mexico. He was a faithful Latter-day Saint, an honest and industrious man, a loving husband and father, a dutiful son and brother, and his sudden death is a great loss to the community where he has resided.

Besides his aged widowed mother, who is almost prostrate with grief, this bereft the eighth son who has buried, he leaves two brothers, W. F. James and C. W. James, and two sisters, Mrs. S. H. Ruelson and Mrs. E. J. Jones, residing in Ogden, and a very large and respected family living in Mexico to mourn his death. His funeral will be held here April 26, and he was interred in Juarez cemetery.

URGE PRESIDENT TO CHANGE PLAN

Letters from All Classes of People Say He Should Accept Nomination.

FROM FOREIGN MONARCHS.

Much Correspondence from Across the Seas Expressing Profound Respect For the Chief Executive.

Special Correspondence.

Washington, D.C., May 2.—Without attempting to detract in a single degree from the very great lead which Secy. Taft has for the Republican nomination for president, there is no gainsaying the fact that the last week has shown a decided activity looking to the renomination of President Roosevelt. Secretary Taft is picking up delegates every week and during the month of May it is confidently predicted by his managers that he will at least have sufficient to insure his nomination on the first ballot. This, however, is not conceded by the "allies" as those are called who are candidates themselves for the high honor and those who are honestly in favor of the renomination of Theodore Roosevelt.

As stated, however, the past week has noticeably increased the talk about the Capitol favorable to the renomination of the president. And this talk comes not so much from the people, although they are expressing themselves in no uncertain way, but from men who have made a life in such politics. They realize that in order to carry out the policies inaugurated by the chief executive, there must be a Republican house and a Republican senate. They argue that there is considerable doubt and uncertainty of securing a Republican house should Secy. Taft be nominated.

THE RESULT IN DOUBT.

The Republicans most generally believe that the secretary of war can be elected, but they do not believe that they can carry the lower house except by the most Herculean efforts and being selfish, for after all is said and done, politics is extremely selfish, they are asking themselves the question whether it would not be the part of wisdom to renominate the president, making the call upon him a matter of public duty rather than a sentiment. There is no one who doubts that President Roosevelt is uncompromisingly honest in his desire to lay down the burdens of the presidency and to take the rest that he so much needs. But the letters the president is receiving from all classes and conditions of people and the talks he is making with the representatives of the country are almost wholly unanimous that he should put behind him his expressed wishes and that his country's call is the first consideration, a consideration that a patriot should not overlook.

THE PRESIDENT'S MAIL.

And as to the letters which the president is receiving. It is stated by those who know that no president ever received the number of letters personal and formal as are being received by Mr. Roosevelt. His mail runs into the hundreds of letters every day, 99 per cent of which bear directly upon his re-nomination. They come from the men in the mines and in the factories; they come from the clerk in the counting room; from the merchant in the country store; from the farmer and the capitalist of industry. Some are comical, but more serious and they have but one tenor, that he must not insist that the country should follow him, but that he should allow that convention to exercise its best judgment, not only for the good of the party, but for the country's good as well.

HANDS ACROSS THE SEA.

And still further in this connection it may be said that President Roosevelt has been the recipient of the largest number of purely personal communications from the heads of the ruling powers of the world than any president who has occupied the White House. Many of these letters have been handed to the President personally by the duly accredited representatives of the world's rulers and breathe a personal appreciation which necessarily makes them sacred for the present at least. Some of the letters touch upon the president's contemplation of the four of the world and express in the warmest terms the desire of the writers to meet this man whose personality makes him the most conspicuous figure of the world of the century. And when these letters are printed, as some of them undoubtedly will be, when the president retires from office, they will show as nothing else can do the respect the potentates of the world have for the chief executive of the great republic.
